● Presentations

- Weekend Adventures - Adama Bryant The Founder and director of Weekend adventures, San Francisco native, raised in the Fillmore, has 3 children, 14, 15 & 27 currently lives in the Tenderloin.. Started weekend adventures, Mission created opportunities, motivate and create a life of their choosing. What their mission is to end generational poverty one bottom line, provide meaningful experiences that are fun, in the arts, sciences, and outdoors. Bayview, WA, Tenderloin. Take kids to the outdoors, if kids don't have these experiences they won't know. It's one thing to know about something reading in a book and another to experience it. Saturday programs, arts, 2 week programs, this is our third year, the places we visit are SF Jazz, Sailing, semi-dream trips, apple picking, really want to go apple picking and the only reason it hasn't happened yet because of COVID. A lot of new programs don't have the reputation yet. How do I get people to trust me during the pandemic, who would I trust with my kids in the pandemic? The answer is me. It's important to say we are fiscally sponsored, able to operate, 501c3, 3 member board, Jen is one of them. It's my hearts work, labor of love. My motto for this year, is we need people with money. How we operated during the pandemic, we didn't for most of the year. Walking in the Marina compared to the tenderloin felt really different, very safe. Partnered with YCD with the bayview, and they provided vans, usually we use public transportation, after seeing that I wanted to have a winter walking series. It was safe, we followed all recommended COVID protocol. End of hiking series did a virtual bookclub. Kids showed up 100% of the time all the time, it was great. During the winter walking stories, was able to recruit 5 new families, and we provided meals and snacks. At the end of the program families wanted to exchange phone numbers. We were scheduled to start next month, but couldn't because of transportation. We are in limbo, we are still working with YCD. Once we work out some kinks, once we are done, our plan is to go hard. The only thing right now is the transportation. Our summer program will be, science in the outdoors, looking for someone to help with curriculum. We want to do a bookclub one month before school starts. Offer a gift card. Those are my hopes, for that piece. I need people for that, volunteers. Any questions? I am going to include the impact report, how much we raised, how many families we served, ive been doing 95% of the work by myself. My hopes for this year is to be able to build the capacity. We only serve on the weekend and we don't compete with other programs. We don't offer tutoring but our program can compliment. It's building, it's community, it's self-discovery, idea is to build community, self-esteem. Lu:, want's to connect to partner in the future. Kim:linked the impact in the chat. Adrian: partner with success centers, help, during the weekend. Love to have opportunities to introduce you to resident services. Engagement is important. We serve 3rd-8th grade so 9-14 years old. Three cohorts, match by age, emotional. Summer applications are on the website. Serving 6-8 pre-pandemic, during the pandemic each cohort is 5 kids per cohort.

- Presidio Tunnel Tops Project - Jen Greene, Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy, Amy Deck, & Lu Sonder Jen: Lu, Amy and Rebekah, we're excited to partner with Adama, weekend adventures, and support local parks, supporting you and the children you serve to open up the world. I'll let my colleagues introduce themselves. Amy: work for presidio trust, partnership trip, I haven't been to a Mo'MAGIC meeting in 4-5 years. I was pregnant the last time I attended a meeting and now he's 4.5 and I haven't been able to attend because I stay home with him on Tuesdays and Thursdays, up until recently. Lu: Now at Golden Gate, thank you for welcoming me. Did a kayaking trip with Brittany. Amy: Cool site, program: a little more program about our three organizations and how we work together. Manage the presidio, manages the interior, then the 300 areas of coastal land, we offer visitors, and builds community support of the park. We work with different initiatives. Crissy fields. We are working to bring the Presidio Tunnel Tops projects, and introduce you to a new project. Show you a short video. Presidiotunneltops.org. Lu: Will be a brand new attraction, built, destination into doyle drive, put into tunnels, connect the historic down to crissy fields. Adventure type playground, built out of natural materials, picnic areas, big open meadows for nature walks, traditional national parks campfire area, campfire circle, a destination for people to come to enjoy, and jumping point for other areas at the park, really peaceful oasis called tunneltops, easy to get to on public transportation, peaceful area. Amazing views of the area. Jen: went out to different community groups, we went out to get feedback, is this where you come? What do you need? What do you want from here? We used to go on a retreat, we'd like to have indoor spaces for communities to meet, for when it's foggy, cold. BBQs, how would the park like to be used? Dealing with a system for community access, not just reservations. To come get together and enjoy. Crissy field building center, place where there will be walkers, community leaders, can get their lunches, and stuff, close to accommodate trails, wide open spaces. Feedback that was truly the heart of the design. Amy: The next couple of slides are ariel images of what's happening at the site now, on left see entry, and what's happening where the meadows will be and walking trails, and see the historic crissy field center, see above some steps, there will be grassy, provide amphitheater style seating. It's all happening, after many years of designing, planning, and feedback. On other side of the road, see the water, connecting crissyfield, and the bay, it's really exciting to see it all taking place. We thank you for your input, it has impacted the design, it's going to be open to the public in Spring 2022, we will have a long opening season, impact, influence, and managing the area, test out, before open to the public. Welcome you to the space before we open to the public and get that valuable feedback from you all, get a feel of how to use the space. Lu: not have a grandopening of 100s or 1000s of people, or a ribboncutting. Photocontest: My park moment, we are inviting community partners and public, share a photo of their favorite park moment, we invite people to submit a photo, a photo of anything you like to do in parks, 400 photos will be selected to be put in display in the park, and be a photo show. 3 categories for photo entries, 1. Visual Storytelling, (Photographers), opp for awards) Adults, and youth, you don't have to be a professional photographers in any way. Amy: We are partnering with photobuild. Of these photos, will display the photos, these will be in various locations near tunnel tops, wrapped around shipping containers. Brittany: Found photos from Kayaking, will submit photos. Jen: Pilot project: we wanted to try it out, we had a pilot period, teeangers from, different locations, found that this was of interest, and how to keep it simple. It's really fun and easy, I submitted a photo with my son at a beach. The pilot was exciting to start generating excitement. April 14th open the submission process and keep it open for 6 weeks, until May 28th. Amy: Keep in touch to get it in the newsletter. On April 14th, toolkit, flyers, you can print if you have a physical space to put it, instagram posts, we have a lot of ways to help you invite friends and family. Help us spread the word. We are prepared, and really easy to cut and paste. Brittany reading Judith's question: Can community, youth come out to paint a mural?, Amy: talk offline that's a great idea. If a barrier: we are happy to help. Womens History Month: Jen: Truly about focusing on equity, access, and 5 women all help their communities and they all do that and with parks, powerful and inspiring. Super proud of sharing that. Lu: Laura, through SFPL history, women in marin headlands, she was looking at the role in the coast me walk, fort baker, and a women who grow up in the early 1900s in the point bonita lighthouse and lastly focused on Amy Myer, a woman who advocated. Put link in the chat to watch the recording. Amy: SFPL partnership this coming Monday, from 3:30-4:30, for the construction team working on all this is an all women. Facilitating panel, absolutely wonderful to please tune in to listen live, but like all nature boost, but if you google natural trail head, you can find it and watch. My park moments and find it there. Thank you all for having us. Safely see you and your pictures in the park. Brittany: Thank you for always included our youth, and community to the parks, hopefully we can utilize the new space and have a retreat. Will definitely submit photos from our youth. <https://www.presidio.gov/tunnel-tops>
